SELECT POETRY.

THE CANTEEN.

PRIVATE MILES O'REILLY.

There are bonds of all sorts in this world of ours,
Fetters of friendship, and ties of flowers,
And true lovers' knots, I ween;
The girl and the boy are bound by a kiss,
But there's never a bond, old friend, like this—
We drank from the same canteen!

It was sometimes water, and sometimes milk,
And sometimes apple-jack fine as silk,
But, whatever the tipple has been,
We shared it together, in bane or bliss,
And I warm to you, friend, when I think of this—
We drank from the same canteen!

The rich and the great sit down to dine,
And they quaff to each other in sparkling wine,
From glasses of crystal and green,
But I guess in their golden potations they miss
The warmth of regard to be found in this—
We drank from the same canteen!

We have shared our blankets and tents together,
And have marched and fought in all kinds of weather,
And hungry and full we have been;
Had days of battle and days of rest,
But this memory I cling to and love the best—
We drank from the same canteen!

For when wounded I lay on the outer slope,
With my blood flowing fast and but little hope
Upon which my faint spirit could lean,
Oh, then I remember you crawled to my side,
And bleeding so fast it seemed both must have died,
We drank from the same canteen!

MISCELLANEOUS.

"Chalk Your Own Door."

His proper name was Jeremiah Marden, but he had not been in the village a week before everybody called him Jerry Marden, and within six weeks he was known as Jerry Muddle. The giver is unknown—for who ever knows the giver of nicknames—but the reason for its being bestowed was that Jerry was always muddled with drink.

He was a very good shoemaker, but he stood no chance with George Stevens, a sober man, and so drifted into becoming a cobbler.

Jerry's one idea was to get a job, and having done it, to invest the proceeds in drink at his favorite beer shop, the "Oram Arms."

The consequence was that Jerry was seldom sober, and had he not possessed an iron constitution two years of such a life must have killed him; but he dragged on, working to-day and idling to-morrow, and drinking whenever drink could be got, and finally he drifted into debt.

His score at the "Oram Arms" was a large one, and the chalks stood up against him like files of soldiers, but Jerry ignored their existence, paying on a little now and then, and drinking more, each time increasing the army of debt against him until one evening Richard Rewitt, the landlord of the aforesaid 'Oram Arms,' cried 'halt.'

'I can't go on any longer, Jerry,' he said. 'The last sum I had was three shillings, and you have paid nothing for a fortnight.'

'Work is slack,' murmured Jerry, 'but the harvest is coming on and everybody will have their soling and heeling done and I shall be able to pay you off.'

'Perhaps so,' returned Mr. Rewitt, 'but you will have as much as you can do to square off what there is up there. Look at them. Those chalks are a standing disgrace to any man. You ought to be ashamed of yourself.'

Jerry looked at the accusing marks, and really felt aghast at the long list against him. The inner door was a regular blackboard, and he trembled before it.

Now, when Jerry first came to the 'Oram Arms' the landlord was very polite, and spoke as softly as you please to him. No spider courteously entreating a fly to enter his parlor, could have been more oily tongued or smiled a more persuasive smile—that is presuming that spiders do smile, which is just possible; but Jerry got into the toils and had been well confined in the web, mine host put on another face and tone.

'If you drink,' he said, 'you must expect to pay for it. My brewer would stand no nonsense from me, and I must have my money from you.'

'Only one pint,' pleaded poor Jerry.

'Not half a pint,' replied the landlord. 'Go home and work, and pay your debts like a man.'

The entrance of a customer with ready money cut short the conversation, and Jerry stood back a pace or two while the other was being served. When that was done and the beer drank and the stranger gone, Jerry made a final appeal.

'I have been a good customer to you, Mr. Rewitt. Almost every penny I have earned has come into your till. I have nigh lived on beer, if living it can be called, and my wife and children have had to shift how they could for bread.'

'That is nothing to me,' said the landlord.

'Let me have one pint?'

'Have you the impudence to ask for it with this shameful lot of chalks staring you in the face.'

Jerry did not reply, he took a long and earnest look at the recording files, and drawing his hand across his dry mouth hurried out of the 'Oram Arms.'

'Who is that you have been talking to, Richard?' inquired Mrs. Rewitt, entering the bar from a room behind.

'Jerry Muddle,' was the reply. 'I have stopped his drink till he pays up.'

'Then he will go to the 'Green Goose' and get his drink there,' said Mrs. Rewitt.

'They don't trust him a penny,' replied her husband, with a grin—'he has tried it on and failed, and so I have got him. If he don't pay up I will make him.'

'There's nothing to get out of the house,' said Mrs. Rewitt, shaking her head. 'I have heard that there's not a chair for them to sit down upon; and Jerry's wife—clean and tidy as she manages to keep herself—looks more like a skeleton than a woman.'

'That's Jerry's look out,' replied Mr. Rewitt, coolly. 'If he can't afford it, he shouldn't drink.'

The subject was dismissed, and Jerry forgotten in the noise and bustle of the usual business. About 9 o'clock Jerry's wife, to the astonishment of both Mr. Rewitt and his wife, appeared in the bar, but not, as they supposed, for drink.

'My husband tells me,' she said, 'that he has a heavy score here. How much is it?'

'I am almost too busy to tell you,' replied the landlord, 'but if it is pressing I will reckon it up.'

'It is pressing, and I will be very thankful if you will let me know at once what it is,' replied the poor woman who was, indeed, wan and pale, and almost justified the title of skeleton, which Mrs. Rewitt had given her.

The landlord went through the chalks twice, and finally, announced that Jerry was indebted to him to the amount of £2 17s 4½d. Jerry's wife received the announcement with the look of quiet dismay, thanked the landlord, and then left the house.

'I suppose she is thinking to make an effort to pay it off,' said Mr. Rewitt, addressing his better half, 'and I hope she will, but I fancy it will be a little too much for her.'

For a whole week nothing was seen or heard of Jerry, but the end of that time his wife appeared and put down five shillings on the counter.

'Will you please take that off the amount, sir,' she said, 'and give me the receipt?'

This was done with a gracious smile, and Jerry's wife departed. Mr. Rewitt announced his having hit the nail on the head. The wife of the cobbler was making an effort to clear off her husband's debt.

At the end of the second week a second five shillings was paid, and then the harvest came on—truly a harvest to the agricultural laborer, as at that time he gathers in clothing, and whatever necessaries his harvest money will enable him to procure. All the tradesmen in the little village were busy, and even Jerry was reported to be full handed. But he did not come near the 'Oram Arms' for drink.

On the third week Jerry's wife brought ten shillings, and on the fourth, fifteen, to the great joy and satisfaction of Mr. Rewitt, whose joy, however, was alloyed by the fear that he had lost a customer. He resolved to look Jerry up as soon as another installment of his account was paid.

Nothing was brought for a fortnight and the landlord congratulated himself on not having hastily sought his absent customer, who still owed him over a pound, but the appearance of Jerry's wife with the ballance had the effect of making him think otherwise. There was no display in putting down the money—it was quickly done—but the happy light in the woman's eyes as she took the receipt spoke more than mere words or actions.

'I have been hasty with Jerry,' said Mr. Rewitt, when another whole month had elapsed without Jerry appearing. 'He promised to pay at harvest time, and he did, but I have offended him, and the 'Green Goose' has caught his custom.'

'Go and see him,' suggested his wife.

'I intended to do so. Here, give me out Tom's boots, they want a patch on the side, it will be an excuse for my droping in upon him.'

'That isn't much of a job for him, seeing that you give George Stevens the best of work,' said Mrs. Rewitt.

'Stevens works better than Jerry,' replied her husband, 'you can always trust him to do his work when it is promised, but Jerry keeps things for weeks together.'

'That is true, but I have a pair of boots that want new fronts, and can wait a week or two. Take them.'

'I'll take both,' said Richard Rewitt, 'nothing like baiting your hooks while you are at it.'

Armed for the reconquest of Jerry, the landlord set forth in the morning—that being a slack time when he could be easily spared from home. Outside were a couple of loafers, with no money and no credit. Mr. Rewitt favored them with a lofty nod of indifference.

Jerry's cottage was in the middle of the village, standing back about fifty feet from the middle of the road, and although its inside poverty had been well known, the outside, to his wife, looked quite as well as its neighbors. Therefore Mr. Rewitt was not in the least surprised to see it look bright and gay on that beautiful autumn morning.

As he approached the door he heard the sound of Jerry's hammer upon the lapstone, and, to his utter amazement, the voice of Jerry caroling a cheerful ditty which used occasionally to come out within the tap room as the song of the raven. Raising the latch the landlord of 'Oram Arms' peeped in.

'Good mornin', Jerry,' he said.

'Oh! Is that you, Mr. Rewitt?' replied Jerry, looking up. 'Come in.'

Jerry looked up, woundrously clean, and he actually had a collar on.

Mr. Rewitt was so overcome by the change that he stood still with his boots under his arm, forgetting that they formed part of his mission.

'You look very well, Jerry,' he said, at last.

'Never felt better in my life,' replied Jerry. 'I wish I could say the same of you. You look whitish.'

'I have got a bit of a cold,' replied the other, 'and I have been shut up a good deal with business lately. Trade has been brisk; but how is it that we have not seen you?'

'Well—the fact is sir,' said Jerry, rubbing his chin, 'I have been busy wiping off your score.'

'But it's done man,' said Mr. Rewitt, cheerfully; 'the door is quite clean as far as you are concerned.'

'I am glad of that.'

'Others have got their share,' said the landlord, facetiously, 'but I think we could make room for you, if you looked us up.'

'No, thanks, sir,' returned Jerry, 'I have had enough of chalking other people's doors, and now I chalk on my own.'

'Chalk on your own?'

'Yes, sir; have the goodness to turn round and look behind. There is my door half full.'

'It is a wise thing to keep account yourself,' said the landlord, who hardly knew what to make of it, 'for mistakes will happen; but—'

'No mistake can happen, sir,' interrupted Jerry, 'for I am the only party as keeps that account.'

'But who trusts you to do that?'

'Nobody—I trust myself,' replied Jerry. 'The marks on your door showed what I did drink, and those on mine show what I did not drink.'

A little light had got into the landlord's brain, and he had a pretty good idea of what was coming, but he said nothing.

'That night when you spoke to me about the chalks on the door being a standing disgrace to me was the night of my waking,' continued Jerry. 'No man could have lectured me better than you did and I thank you for it from the bottom of my heart. As I left your house I vowed to touch drink no more, and I came home and told my wife and we joined in earnest prayer that I might have the strength to keep my vow. The next morning I went over to George Steven's and asked him how I could go about signing the pledge. He helped me like a man and it was done.'

With his eyes wandering to and fro between Jerry and the chalks upon the door, the amazed landlord still remained silent, Jerry went on:

'My wife wanted to work herself to death to keep me,' he said, 'but I said no. You do what you can to keep the children until my debts are paid, and then I'll keep you and the children too. So I went to work paying right and left, and when all was paid I began to do what I ought to have done years ago—feed my wife and children. I had enough to spare, and would have spent some with you. And many's the time I've been tempted to go—and I'm tempted still, but when the feeling comes over me I take a drink of water or a cup of tea, put twopence into the box I've got on purpose, and score a chalk on the door. All of them chalks are so many twopences saved.'

Mr. Rewitt was unable to make any particular remark, but murmured in a confused manner, 'You've got a lot of 'em.'

'Yes, there is a large family,' replied Jerry, complacently, 'and the more I look at them the more I like them. There is not much standing disgrace about that lot, credit if anything.'

'Oh, yes, yes,' returned the landlord, 'but dear me—this cold in my head is quite distressing. You must have a large box for all of your twopence.'

'When I get six together I take them to the savings bank,' replied Jerry; 'that's a bank better than any till. They give nothing out, but banks like that return you more than you put in. Until I began to handle my own chalk I had no idea how much your till swallowed up. You would not trust me for a pint, but I can have it back whenever I want it.'

'That's something,' said Mr. Rewitt, tartly.

'It is everything to a man who has a wife and children to keep,' replied Jerry. 'The best of us have sickness and trouble and rainy days, and then it is a great thing to have something to fall back upon. It is better to keep yourself than to go to the parish. There's another thing, too, about these chalks of mine—your's went down before my wife and children were fed; mine go down after that's done. I think that my chalks are the better of the two. So I say to all, 'Chalk your own door.'

Mr. Rewitt had nothing to say; he could not deny it, and he could not admit it, but took refuge, like other heathen man, in flight. With the boots under his arm he hastened home and presented himself before his wife in a rather excited condition.

'What is the matter, Richard?,' she asked.

'Nothing particular,' he replied, 'except that Jerry Muddle has joined the temperance lot, and he seems so firm in it that I don't believe he will ever touch a drop again.'

Richard Rewitt, of the 'Oram Arms' was right. And Jerry, who bears the name of Muddle no longer, but is called by the name to which he is entitled by right of birth, viz., that of Marden, has not touched a drop of strong drink from the day of his reformation to this. His door has been filled again and again with the score he records in his own favor, and the beer he has not drank is everywhere around him in the form of a comfortable home, a respectable amount in the bank, and a goodly investment in a building society.

A MANLY ADMISSION.

Hon. Chas. Wolfe has been from the first the head and front and brains of the independent revolt from the republican party in this State. Alone and single handed he raised the standard of independence from party rules and obligations in 1881, and secured more votes for himself as an independent candidate for State treasurer than did the independent candidate for governor last year, backed by a strong and well equipped party organization. While he no doubt honestly believed that evils in the party management might be remedied by the discipline of defeat, there is little doubt that the soreness of disappointed ambition tended to magnify in his mind the extent and enormity of those evils. Taking advantage of his disaffection, the democratic leaders persuaded him to believe what he should have known was impossible—that they were in sympathy with his views and that the stripling whom they had nominated for governor would prove a veritable Moses to lead him and his followers into the promised land of political reform and freedom from "bosses." He and his independent followers accepted the promises of the wily leaders of democracy, and the alleged candidacy of Stewart was nothing more or less than a scheme to elect Pattison. The scheme was successful, and Pattison was elected. He was elected by the aid of republican votes. He and his party knew it, and some of his more honest party friends were candid enough to openly confess it. Mr. Wolfe had, therefore, a right to expect substantial recognition of the services of himself and his followers from the man whom they had been instrumental in placing in the gubernatorial chair. Did they receive it? Oh, no. Mr. Pattison sympathized with the disappointed republican politicians very deeply before election, and was glad of their assistance, but after election he heeded the counsel of partisan democrats only, and the independent republican wing of his supporters were tacitly given to understand that their services were no further required. He further gave them to understand that while he was all for reform and was terribly opposed to "bosses"—republican "bosses," not democratic—before election, now that he was elected there was nothing very obnoxious about democratic "bosses," and he was inclined to become one himself; and as for reform, it was a good catch-word with which to fool republican voters, but was an abstract idea of no use to a democratic administration.

As the purpose and spirit of Pattison's administration became known the scales have fallen from the eyes of Mr. Wolfe, and he is honest and manly enough to now admit his error and folly. His recent public announcement that he was in error and will not soon again be deceived into "pulling democratic chestnuts out of the fire" has raised him very much in the estimation of all good men. An honest confession of error goes far towards its redemption. We now await with interest the expression of other independent leaders. None of them were certainly more earnest or active in the cause of republican disruption for the benefit of the democratic party than he, yet they did what they could. Our senator, Mr. Emery, was an ardent admirer and zealous follower in the footsteps of Mr. Wolfe. He followed him out of the republican party; now will he be equally manly and honest as his chief—confess his error and follow him back again?

The Era felicitates secretary of internal affairs Africa upon being an "independent of the purest type" because he retained two of the old clerks in his department. Just wait, neighbor, until the new appointees get acquainted with their duties, then the services of these two experienced men will not be required and a couple of faithful henchmen will be found to take their places.

The prohibition cause received solid encouragement in this county by the forcible and logical argument of ex-Gov. St. John at the M. E. Church in Bradford last Sunday evening. Notwithstanding the refusal of the democratic legislature of this State to allow the people to vote upon the adoption of a prohibition amendment the temperance people are by no means discouraged.

The Port Allegany Reporter says, "there will be only one State officer elected this fall—that of treasurer." Well informed people had supposed that there was an auditor-general to be elected also this fall. Our enterprising neighbor should read his political calendar a little more closely.

Col. Fair, of Bradford, is spoken of by eastern papers as a possible and strongly endorsed candidate for State treasurer. Few men in the State are better qualified for the position, and if fidelity to party principles counts for anything the Col. should make a strong candidate.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Facts and Comments about Politics, Parties and Prominent Men and Women.

Bismarck is trying whether he can out grunt the American hog.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow; the legislature has adjourned! A more dangerous, corrupt, unmanageable and outrageously partisan body than it was has not disgraced the halls of legislation for many years. The all-controlling motive of the session was gain.—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

Quite a novel spectacle was witnessed on Friday at Pensacola in the way of funerals. A drayman, named Pat Townsend, died and his brother draymen attended his funeral on drays. The string of odd-looking carriages attracted considerable attention while going up Palafox street.—Jacksonville Times Union.

"The new appointments," says one of the Governor's admirers, "are not so good as some of his earlier ones." "May it please the court," said Rufus Choate, "we do not claim that the harness, for the value of which we bring suit, was a first rate rate harness. But we do claim that it was a first-rate second rate harness."

The London Telegraph praises Minister Lowell's after dinner speeches as being admirable, and intimates that Americans generally excel Englishmen in that interesting art. It cites two noted Englishmen in particular as comparative failures—Richard Cobden and Charles Dickens, and calls the latter's speech in New York in 1868 as "highfalutin" elocution.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., May 4.—The returns from the municipal elections throughout Indiana show that in many instances strictly political differences were not the only issues, and in some cases politics did not figure in the result at all. For the first time in several years the Democrats elected their ticket entire in Vincennes, but wherever the Republicans maintained their organization in tact and made the fight upon strictly party grounds, they were successful, and in some cases substantial gains were scored.—Special to Pittsburg Telegraph.

PITTSBURG, May 5.—Hon. R. N. McClarran, member of the Legislature, in an interview to-day, stated that he had had a half hour's chat with Hon. C. S. Wolfe, of Union, before leaving the capital, during which Wolfe said that he had renounced allegiance to the Independents and would hereafter be found pulling in the traces with the Stalwart wing of the party. He said he was tired of being made a cat's-paw by the Democrat's; that he was a Republican, but at the same time would not be made the tool of any clique or faction. Wolfe wound up by saying that he might have erred in judgment, but he was sincere in his advocacy of the Independent movement, as he thought at the time it was started that the Republican party needed a little weeding out. That object, he thought, had in a great measure been accomplished, and he was now in favor of harmony.—Special to Philadelphia Record.

A few men in the Republican party, by their objectionable methods, made it possible for a few other men to defeat the regular State ticket last fall and place in power the present combination of bourbonism and idiocy. The question now seems to be, does disregard for the people's wishes, on the one hand, and treachery to the best ticket the party ever nominated, on the other, constitute the proper basis upon which to "harmonize?" If the Republican party has no higher purpose or ideal of harmony and perpetuity of Republican principles, than to ratify schemes or purposes "agreed upon" between traitors who allied themselves with the Democrat's and ringsters who furnished the pretense for that alliance, it need not take the trouble to nominate any ticket. Let all the bosses be sent to the rear and the people take charge of their own affairs. The Republican cranks who turned the State over to the Democracy and the regular ringsters should go together. The people will gain nothing by a foo ng or dicker.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

"LET'S ALL HARMONIZE!" shouts the New York Commercial. And, really, that most cantankerous of stalwart journals appears to be seeking political peace with a strong desire to ensure it. "We are for anything," it declares, "to rid the State of the present ruling democracy," and it names respectively the editors of the New York Tribune, the Utica Herald and the Buffalo Express, as specimens of the "worst kind of a Garfield republican" whom it would support "for governor, comptroller, member of congress, senator, or member of assembly, rather than such specimens of 'respectable democrats' as Cleveland or Speaker Chapin." We must allow that this is a truly touching illustration of the intensity of our esteemed contemporary's hankering after harmony. But speaking for the only one of the above named "worst kind" whose opinions we happen to know, we must say that such a nomination would be vastly more likely to fasten upon the State, than to rid it of, the rule of the present democracy.—Buffalo Express.

CHAIRMAN COOPER has issued a call for a republican State convention to be held in Harrisburg on Wednesday, July 11, for the purpose of nominating candidates for auditor-general and State treasurer.

HON. DAVID STERRETT is favorably mentioned as an available candidate for auditor-general. He is recognized as one of the ablest and fairest members of the House, and has won many friends among all parties.

Democratic Obstructions.

It is said that outside pressure is to be brought to bear upon the Pennsylvania Democrats in order that they may be compelled to oppose the Senate Apportionment bill. It will be time enough to find fault with the Democrats when it is seen that they have yielded to the pressure. So far their mistakes has been made in pushing unreasonable Democratic apportionment bills. But what is now a mistake would grow into a blunder should the Democrats in the Legislature, either of their own volition or on account of party pressure from within the State or without, persist in opposing the Senate apportionment and prevent its final passage during the present session.

Whether the story of outside pressure upon the Pennsylvania Democrats has been circulated merely as an excuse for a Democratic opposition that has already been determined upon in Harrisburg and Philadelphia, whether the outside pressure is actually centering upon the Democrats of the Legislature or whether the rumor is simply the outgrowth of the party desire to take advantage of an accidental foothold to secure a permanent occupancy of places of political power, the responsibility for the final action must rest entirely upon the Democrats in the Legislature and upon the Democratic party of the State. Democratic politicians at Washington will be willing enough to share bad advice, but they will not share the blame if Democrats at home accept the advice.

It is said that Governor Pattison will call an extra session of the Legislature if the apportionment bills of the present session fail of final passage. The Republicans offer a fair apportionment. The Democrats can accept or refuse it as they chose. But if they refuse, the poor excuse that the plan was not based upon the vote of 1882 will not relieve them of the responsibility of creating the expense of an extra session. Because Democrats ask for more, it cannot be expected that Republicans will yield to unjust demands because they are reiterated through an extra session. The Republican plan is just and even generous. If the Democrats reject it the voters of the State will remember which party was the stumbling block that prevented a compliance with the plain requirements of the law.—Philadelphia Press.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

"Oh, for a breath of myrtle and of bay,
And glints of sunny skies through dark leaves flashing,
And limpid seas beneath a golden day,
Against the strand with soft susurrus flashing."

The brass band are practicing nightly on marches and dirge music.

Numerous columns of smoke up Marvin Creek to-day indicate forest fires.

The plash of the fountains again makes pleasant music for the MINER office.

County officers can find blanks suitable to their several official callings at the MINER office.

At no time in the past has the "dug way" been so safe or in so good condition as at present.

Another week of this kind of weather and the forests will have put on their summer clothes.

We publish one marriage notice and three notices of divorce this week. Whither are we drifting.

Isn't it time some of our hunters would begin to bring in pigeons: It's high time for p-p-p.

A bay window is being added to the residence of Esq. Ford, Church street which materially embellishes that building.

The Sheriff has some three columns of announcements in this issue which will be interesting reading—to the lawyers.

Sealed proposals for whitewashing the Patatoe creek bridge will be advertised for as soon as the color has been decided upon.

Another oil well to be drilled on the Haskill farm right away entitles us to all the dignity, advantages and prestige of an oil town.

Commencing with the fourth Monday of May, 28th of the month, there will be two weeks of court, one criminal and one civil.

Commencing May 13th a Pullman sleeper will be run from Buffalo to Philadelphia by way of the B. N. Y. & P. and P. & E. roads.

Mrs. Langtry will be in Bradford next Saturday night, and no doubt a large number of people will go to see her and Freddie.

People hereabouts are planting potatoes, determined not to pay the outrageous prices demanded for this indispensible vegetable through next winter.

All who heard the Theodore Thomas' concert at Bradford last week agree in calling it the finest entertainment of the kind ever presented in this country.

It is much more than probable that a visit to the musical festival to be held in Orpheus Hall, Bradford, next week, would justify the trouble and expense.

Clusters of men and boys are grouped about the mill dam each evening, deftly trying to decoy the little fishes, but the catch up to the present has been very light.

The lawn surrounding the residence of John Forrest Main street has been dressed and beautified and now presents the handsomest appearance of any private place in town.

Commissioner Reilly, shake: It does look spring like to see the fountains again, and, for that you did not paint them green, we feel that we have reason to be truly thankful.

It is a healthful sign for the future that the sale of agricultural implements this spring has more than doubled that of any similar length of time heretofore, in this neighborhood.

The Potter Enterprise has entered on its tenth year, full of life and hope, and assured of a future of profit, and usefulness. Like wine,—as we have heard say,—the Enterprise improves with age.

The Sherman house at Driftwood was burned to the ground last Thursday morning with most of its contents. No insurance. Origin of the fire supposed to be a defective flue. Loss $5,000.

Mrs. F. G. Stebbins, wife of the editor of the Cuba Patriot who died a short time since, has received $2,000 from the Knights of Honor, of which order he was a member.—Potter Enterprise.

Navigation on Chautauqua lake has been formally opened and the "Hiawatha" "Minnehaha" and "Winona," formerly "J. A. Burch," "W. B. Shattuck" and "M. A. Griffith" are runing regular trips.

The Committee of arrangements, the music and floral committees had a pleasant meeting at the specious parlors of the Wright house last evening, at which much was accomplished toward the work they have in hand.

The several secret societies, the Smethport hose company, the Sunday schools and the people of the town and neighborhood will receive in due time, official invitations to participate in the observance of Decoration Day.

—Bradford people are hard to satisfy. They have secured the railroad shops, have a furniture factory ready to start, are offered glass works on easy terms, and now the Era wants a shoe-peg factory. "Does the Era want the world?"

Merchant tailors say that their orders from this borough are for the most part for costly and very elegant attire, and this may mean something or nothing, but if the boys are meditating decisive steps in life they are keeping very quite about it.

—If persons having soldier relatives buried in the cemetaries in this neighborhood, or others knowing of the same will hand the names into the MINER office they will confer a favor on the Decoration Committee and greatly assist them in their work.

—There is great complaint, and in some states legislation against the English sparrow, yet nobody has yet suggested that dynamite, which spreads such terror in the little robbers native country, might be employed to frighten him out of this country.

—The owners of cows that go prowling about town day and night must not kick when they find them in the public pound with what may seem like excessive penalties attached. One cow in a night can destroy the labor and care of perhaps, years, if she can get to some favorite shrubbery.

Won't have it in Eldred.

For a number of months a house of prostitution has been run in Eldred, much to the disgust and annoyance of the good people of that quiet borough, but up to last week there seemed to be no one who was willing to take the initiative in an effort to dislodge them, no doubt because it always occasions comment from both sides of the question, and also, probably for the additional reason that it has heretofore seemed almost impossible to reach these people by the law.

But one day last week the noise and the shameless conduct of the inmates of this dive,—which by the way was immediately across the road from the graveyard,—became insupportable and an information was made before Esq. Moses, charging them with the usual offences in such cases, and upon a warrant properly issued, the officers brought before his Honor four white women, one black creature of uncertain sex, and a young man, son of respected parents residing in the village.

Before the hearing had been finished, it was intimated by some of the prisoners that if an opportunity was given the women would be glad to settle the costs and promise to leave the county and remain away. This was thought to be the best course to pursue, and upon satisfactory adjustment of all claims, they took flight for Du Bois, Pa., which village has our sympathy as well as the women.

The young man mentioned above, was found in the house and in bed. He has since left town, presumably to follow his frail friend, to whom he seemed greatly attached.

PERSONAL.

J. S. Milne, of the house of Barns & Brancroft, Buffalo, spent the Sabbath here.

Patsey Fragner, tobacco manufacturer of Bradford, has been making calls on his customers this week.

Mrs. J. H. Gray has gone to the eastern markets in quest of new goods appropriate to the season.

Hon L. Rogers, of Harrisburg, is in town and the neighborhood, looking after real estate interests in this county.

John Sowers of the Exchange hotel at the buffalo depot has been quite ill for some time, and grave doubts are yet entertained as to his recovery.

W. A. May, mining engineer of the N. Y. L. E. & W. railroad company has been examining the coal and coal lands in this neighborhood during several days this week.

Rev. J. Heber McCandless who has been spending the winter months in the mild climate of Florida, is announced to conduct the services at St. Luke's Episcopal church in this borough next Sunday.

Jno. R. Chadwick and Jno. R. Shoemaker have each made lasting and valuable approvements in their personal appearances by removing or causing to be removed the hirsuite appendages to their several physiognomies.

The Merchant Tailor.

Few if any of the business men of Bradford, or of any other portion of the county have met with the success that has attended the efforts of J. H. Habernigg the merchant tailor. From a business conducted on the "sample" plan at first, some five years ago, the enterprise has grown to such an extent that Mr. Habernigg is compelled to keep a force of more than thirty workmen and women and carries a stock of goods aggregating many thousand dollars. His work has always been accounted the best, and he has secured, by the excellency of his work the greater per cent of the best trade in his city and neighborhood.

Mr. Habernigg on a visit made to this borough this week perfected arrangements to have a line of samples on hand at the Grand Central hotel, and at any time any of his customers can order clothing, and those who have not heretofore traded with him will find it to their advantage to look over his goods before giving their orders elsewhere. Whenever two orders are sent at one time, Mr. H. will come at once to take the measures, and if but one, will pay fare one way to customer going to Bradford. Step into the hotel and see his goods and get his prices.

The Eagle and 'Squire Moses.

In last weeks issue of the Eldred Eagle there appeared some sharp criticism of the manner in which Esq. Moses had administered the law in an assault and battery case in which Lewis and Mullin were respectively prosecutor and prisoner. The magistrate, states that after full and careful hearing he was compelled to discharge the defendant for lack of testimony on which to commit him, although there was little doubt that Mullin was guilty, but the evidence was not forthcoming, and a subsequent hearing, before another magistrate fully established the justness of his decision. The 'Squire believes he can only decide as to the evidence and facts as brought before him, whatever may be his personal feelings and prejudices, which seems to us a very proper notion. Was not the Eagle a little hasty in its conclusions.

A Valuable Publication.

The most convenient and reliable railway guide publication is Baldwins Railway Guide, published at Buffalo, under the supervision of W. S. Baldwin, one of the most efficient and capable railway officials in the country. It is published monthly, and each publication is carefully revised and corrected so that its time tables are absolutely reliable. The contents comprise time tables of all the roads that go into Buffalo, all the narrow gauges, and all other roads of importance in New York and Pennsylvania, and is especially valuable to people of this section who travel even occasionally. The subscription price is one dollar a year, and it is well worth many times that amount.

To Cemetery Lot-holders.

As a large number of people will visit the cemetries in this place on Decoration Day, the holders of lots as well as those having friends interred there should see to it before that day,—May 30th—, that their lots, and the resting places of those of their friends laid there are put in as good shape as possible to give the cemetries the most presentable appearance possible. A very little attention and work in this direction will make a noticeable difference, adding much to the beauty of these pleasantly located burial grounds.

BRADFORD.

The Councils are Strangely Quiet—The City and its Surroundings as They Appear To-Day—A Pointer For Policemen.

Many of our most prominent lawyers have gone to Philadelphia to attend the Supreme Court this week.

The usual lies are being circulated concerning trout fishing this spring, but nobody is likely to be deceived.

The man who sawed the armful of pine wood as an advertisement for the Roberts torpedo, has entirely recovered.

No additional democrats have been appointed to fat offices by the republican councils during the past week as far as heard from.

In my last, and this letter I have neglected our friends who visit back and forth from Smethport, but in the future will try to do them justice.

Notwithstanding the efforts of Mayor Broder, there are yet a few "joints" left in the town which the public can find as easily as any one else can if they are a mind to.

Hugh P. Brawley was in town Wednesday and Thursday of this week and behaved as well as any man could, but don't infer that Hugh ever conducts himself otherwise, for he doesn't.

This morning fire destroyed the reel and turning factory of McKee & Co., near the Erie railroad bridge. It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin—Loss about three thousand dollars.

The annex to the Oil Exchange is nearing completion, and will, when finished add at least one half to the accommodations of the Exchange proper, making this the best arranged and most expensive oil market house in the country.

Owing to the inability of Gen'l Thomas L. Kane, to act as chief marshal on Decoration Day, Col. J. A. Ege has been appointed in his stead. The old boys here have made every arrangement for a most extensive observance of the day at this city.

Rev. Dr. D. W. C. Huntington and Peter Findlay Esq., have been chosen delegates to the State Prohibition convention which meets in Bellefonte in June next, John Brown and H. S. Davis alternates. I am not clear as to the objects of this convention, but from the men chosen as our representatives I am not afraid that any harm will be done.

The week just closed has been one of disappointment to a great many people, in that it has not furnished additional proof of the ability of the statesman from the third ward who votes with the democratic minority. The people are slow to wrath, but und as something is soon done they may lose their confidence in the static young councilman from that quarter of the city.

When you want cars or locomotive engines constructed either in quantity or small lots you can call on us at Bradford. The car works are an established fact. On Monday last the master mechanic of the Rochester & Pittsburg after looking the grounds over selected a site, and the work of erecting the necessary buildings, putting in the machinery, etc., will be commenced at once.

An ordinance to reduce the salary of the street commissioner to $100 per annum has been presented and has passed second reading and is likely to become a law. If an amendment could be added providing for presenting the republican councilmen who continually vote with the democrats with a leather medal each, it would meet with the approbation of the party in this city, and be a fitting testimonial of the esteem in which the chronic bolters are held.

Incorporation of the Bradford furniture company is sought, and soon we hope to be able to show you when you visit this city an industry to which this neighborhood is peculiarly adapted, in full blast, employing scores of men, woman and boys, and furnishing the first conclusive answer as to the permanency of this phenomenal metropolis.

Work has already been begun in the direction of building quarters suitable to the tastes and commensurate with the requirements of the Producers' Oil Exchange Association. The debris left by the late fire has been cleared off and a fence encloses the lot so that work can be carried on inside without the interruption that would be sure to come from the crowds of loafers who always hang around where their more industrious neighbors are at work.

Theodore Thomas and his unequaled orchestra have been with us and left a most excellent impression. It would be difficult to conceive of any improvement that could be made in this superior organization, and it is safe to say that unless on the return of the same orchestra, the delighted audience who filled the house to hear them will never look upon their like again. One lady remarked in my hearing that until she went to heaven she never again expected to listen to music so enchanting.

Day by day something new in the interesting little democratic fight between the McClure faction and the house of McSweeny develops; and I find that this thing is older than was at first thought, dating back to about a year ago. Whether the perfidy on the part of the McSweenys was calculated and carried out as a scheme to shelve Jos. McClure, they (the Mcs.) only can know; but, like the boomerang, their little plan has rebounded and completely crippled themselves. As a circulator of petitions, however, the District Attorney has not yet found an equal.

The May Musical Festival which will commence next Monday and continue until Friday evening is being looked forward to as a rare treat by our music loving people, and certainly they have good reason to when one considers the people whose names appear on the programme as printed and distributed for the occasion. A call upon the people for the necessary funds to defray expenses was most liberally responded to, in the shape of the purchase of season tickets, and now nothing remains but to go and hear them. Orpheus Hall has been selected as the place for holding the festival.

Tarport may be a small and somewhat obscure village, but when her officials are misrepresented by the newspapers she does not hesitate to call the offenders down. Now, the councils of Tarport know that there is nothing that hurts a newspaper so much as to "resolout" against it, and with a deliberate purpose to do the Evening Star great bodily injury, these officials at a recent meeting, in a series of resolutions calls the Star a liar "in three counts," and holds herself ready to back the charge. The trouble seems to be that that newspaper said there was not sufficient water for use at the late fire. If the Star wants to be safe, it will, in the future, make this charge against our own water works and leave Tarport alone.

Temperance, and the temperance cause has had quite a boom among us during the week just closing. Ex Governor St. John of Kansas, who one year ago was recognized as the political head of the prohibition movement, on Sunday evening at the Methodist church delivered perhaps the ablest address upon this subject that any of his hearers ever listened to, and did much toward strengthening the movement and faith of the earnest temperance makers here. The governor is a man of great force and argument, earnest and candid and possesses to a very high degree, the ability to interest his hearers. He looks upon the work of eradicating this great evil as only begun, but has full faith in the belief that the present generation will see liquor, as a beverage, banished from our midst and its loathsome form laid away beside the great slavery evil, to hurt no more forever.

At no time perhaps since the rush of people of this place, and since a police force was deemed necessary to the safety and comfort of the people, has there been greater reason to find fault with the carelessness of policemen than at present, and certainly there is a great lack somewhere just now when the denizens of the "Island" are allowed to create such a disturbance, and to keep it up all night long, as to effectually deprive the law-abiding residents for squares away of any chance to rest. Last Saturday night, from early in the evening until two o'clock in the morning or later, the most infernal din was kept up by these people, mingled at times with epithets the most foul and offensive that human beings could learn to utter, and through all this time there seemed to be none to say them nay. I don't want to reflect unjustly on the chief of police or any patrolman, but it seems that now, when the residents of this disreputable quarter have been reduced in numbers to a score or so against the hundreds we formerly had, they might be kept as quiet as they were then. Such a night as last Saturday was makes life to the residents along Walker avenue far from pleasant or peaceful. 1142.

Church Services.

The Rev. J. Heber McCandless will officiate at St. Luke's Church next Sunday.

It being Whitsunday, full communion service will be celebrated, and appropriate music by the full choir.

"The Unpardonable Sin" will be the subject of the sermon at the M. E. church next Sunday evening.

At Kittredges'.

On Saturday evening, the 19th inst., one week from next Saturday, our people will meet at Kittredges' Opera House, in the person of John Thompson, one of the most talented, and certainly one of the most amusing comedians on the stage to-day. He will produce "Around the World," which play will give both himself and the strong company supporting him ample opportunity to display their ability. We will have more to say on this subject next week when we have come nearer to the show.

McKean's First Oil Well.

In the issue of the MINER dated September 8th, 1866,—long before any of our local contemporaries were born—the following item of oil news appeared, which in the light of to-day—gas light—reads strangely. It says:

OIL AT BRADFORD.—The question has finally been decided that we have oil in McKean county. On Monday the 27th ult. Mr. Welch, the gentleman engaged in putting down the Kingsbury well, at Bradford, after boring about 791 feet, 80 of which were in the oil bearing rock, struck a small vein of oil. The oil is of a superior quality, and men experienced in the business predict that it will be a first class well.

Death of a Well-Known Editor.

The veteran editor, Horace E. Purdy, of the Belfast Free Press, died Thursday evening last, at the age of 67 years. Mr. Purdy was one of the best known editors in the Southern Tier, and we may say one of the most able. For many years he conducted different papers in Allegany county. He was once political editor of the Detroit Free Press, then of the Albany Times. He then went to Hornellsville and afterwards to Elmira, where he established the Free Press. His first newspaper venture was the Mayville Sentinel, when he was twenty years old. He was born in Canisteo and had been in the newspaper business forty-seven years. He was a staunch, uncompromising democrat, thoroughly honest in his convictions, fearless in expression, and no mean antagonist as we have reason to know; and we know him also to have been a large hearted friend and genial companion. He deserved much from his party and received little for a life spent in its service.

In the Spring

The young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, so says the poet, but he is wrong. The young man's thoughts are firmly concentrated on how and where he is to get a spring suit; and he should take a walk and look at our stock, and he would see at what astonishingly low figures he could fit himself out with a spring suit. Young man, how is $8.00 and $10.00 for a real nice suit that will make you look neat and stylish? No cotton, but all wool. We guarantee this. The mere mention of prices does not convey any idea of the real value of our enormous stock, which is too great to enumerate. Come and look at our clothing, then you will be able to judge for yourself. Our goods speak for themselves. We want your trade, and know that we can give you better satisfaction than you can get elsewhere, and give you the best return for your money you have ever received in this city. Our stock includes all varieties, qualities and styles, made from the finest imported and domestic goods that can be obtained in the market. We take great pleasure in showing our lines of new and seasonable goods, and wish everybody to call. We know our prices are right, and we invite comparison. Goodman & Marks, the One Price Clothiers, 47 Main street, Bradford, Pa.

Woodburns Peoples' Store.

Among the dry goods dealers of Western Pennsylvania there are none whose experience or success has entitled them to a more prominent place in the trade than the Woodburns of Franklin, whose store in this place—The Peoples' Store—is so successfully conducted by Mrs. J. H. Gray. For a long time it looked as if there was not room here for this store, and until so radical and thorough reform was made in the quality of goods and the prices asked therefor, there was not room, but that movement made a place for them, and now they have a trade which gives them the confidence necessary to go ahead and lay in a stock of goods such as has not yet been opened here.

At this time Mrs. Gray is absent selecting a fine lot of dress goods which will be bought in single patterns. A change in the way of disposing of that part of the stock which is carried for mens wear will be made as fast as possible, and the attention of the managers will be given to ladies and childrens dress and furnishing goods, and we are at at liberty to promise the customers of this store that they will have opportunities in these goods that they have never had before.

The Messrs Woodburn have purchasing agents in the Eastern cities who are constantly on the alert for anything new or elegant that may come into the hands of importers and the goods for their branch store at Smethport are bought by them, and for the reason that they purchase in immense quantities, at reduced rates, they are able to offer their goods at prices that would not afford a profit to the dealer who buys in the usual way. Notice will be given through the MINER when these goods arrive.

It's Kalsomine You Want.

If you will look into Mason's hardware store he will show you prepared kalsomine in dozens of different shades, a look at which will satisfy you that it is what you want just now that housecleaning time is upon you. This material is put up in six pound packages with full printed directions of applying, and is at once the most beautiful and durable manner of decorating walls and ceilings. It is a preparation that can be prepared by any one and when put on soon dries into a smooth even and rich appearance. Besides all this it does not cost half as much, nor is it half the trouble of putting on as paper and looks much better. See it anyhow.

—Real estate in McKean county in coming to be sought after for its value and advantages in an agricultural point of view. Last week L. B. Fletcher, of Marvin Creek, sold his farm at a good round price to a party who intends to cultivate and clear it up. Mr. Fletcher will at once remove to Iowa where he expects to find less labor and greater remuneration in the business of husbandry.

When You go to Goss'.

If you want some of the finest confectionery ever seen here or anywhere else in this neighborhood, all you have to do is to ask for it. Mr. Goss has had many years experience in the same line of trade in which he is engaged now before he came here, and while he is well acquainted with all the details of the business, he has made himself familiar with the wants and tastes of his customers and claims to be able to suit them, but the way to test this is to call and try him. As a baker of bread, puffs, lemon snaps, cream cake, and in fact anything that is to be found in a first-class bakery, Ed has no superior, and, indeed, but few equals in this part of the state. His store contains a stock of groceries well selected, which he is selling close, and which, from the satisfaction they have already given serve to recommend themselves. If he cannot suit you in any or all of the goods mentioned above, or in anything to be found in a grocery store, there is but little use of looking farther. To demonstrate this drop into his store on Mechanic street near the race bridge and be satisfied.

—A fire in Tarport last Saturday night destroyed half a dozen buildings before it could be checked. No water.

Phipps Convicted of Forgery.

The jury in the Phipps case came into court yesterday morning, and rendered a verdict of guilty on the charge of forgery. The verdict did not surprise those who had intelligently and dispassionately followed the case and noted all its surroundings. To a dispassionate distant reader of the testimony, without knowledge of the many collateral facts inseparably interwoven in the case and clearly visible to the jury, the conviction of Major Phipps will seem as a harsh resolving of doubts against the prisoner.

The only direct testimony fixing the crime of forgery upon Major Phipps was that given by Mr. Williamson, and in any ordinary case his evidence would have been regarded as sufficiently shattered to entitle the prisoner to reasonable doubts as to his guilt. But when the witness Williamson had to be discredited by Almshouse officials, who stood self-convicted of reckless abuse of official trust when they declared one of their employes for years to be unworthy of credit, the rational and irresistible inference was that Phipps was guilty and that there was a common interest among his defenders to secure his acquittal. The prosecution was not fortunate in its chief and only direct witness, but the defense was vastly more unfortunate in the only method by which the witness could be discredited. The necessary effort of the defense only intensified the bad flavor that arose from the general and systematic pauper-theft that prevailed under the administration of Major Phipps, and every blow struck for the relief of the prisoner recoiled upon himself.

Judge Allison submitted the case to the jury with most commendable care and impartiality. He simply steadied the hand of justice as was his plain duty, by pointed admonition against deciding the case on anything other than the testimony before the Court and jury; and he clearly defined and presented every doubt that could be resolved in favor of acquittal. His record is so clear of legal flaws that reversal in the Supreme Court on any legal issue, is most improbable; and the question of fact, involving the credibility of the chief witness for the prosecution, on which the verdict evidently hung, was one that is wholly for the jury. It is reasonable to assume, therefore, that the verdict will stand, and that a sentence for forgery will be Major Phipps' atonement as the detected one of many Almshouse criminals.—Philadelphia Times.

Hon. David Starrett talks.

Hon. David Starrett was cornered by a newspaper interviewer in Philadelphia a few days ago and made to talk. He says the bill to separate the offices of prothonotary and recorder will not be reached this session; the judiciary apportionment bill will be left and the adoption of the congressional and legislative apportionment bill is very doubtful; revenue legislation is in bad shape, and Governor Pattison is looked upon by his ablest party leaders as a sort of political "dude."

Prompt Payment.

We clip the following letter from the Middletown (Pa.) Journal, of the 17th inst, which is another instance of the exceeding promptness of that popular company, the Brooklyn Life, in paying its losses:

MIDDLETOWN, PA., 1883.

Officers Brooklyn Life Ins. Co. Gentlemen: I wish to give expression to my thanks for the payment to me this day, of one thousand dollars ($1,000) by your special agent, Mr. Weaver, being the full amount of policy No. 7098 in your company, on the life of my late husband, Francis P. Norton.

Space will not permit me, here, to speak of the many excellent features of your company, but under a sense of my gratitude to you, I cannot refrain from making special mention of the promptitude which characterized your settlement of the above policy.

The proofs of death only reached you on the 11th inst., and I had no reason to expect the payment of the loss until sixty days thereafter, but the date of your check indicates that you made payment thereof instantly.

The above amount being paid to me so unexpectedly soon, calls forth my warmest thanks, and it is with a deeper appreciation of the benefits of life insurance than I ever had before, that I earnestly commend your company, not only on account of its exceptional liberality, but its excellent standing as well, to all persons needing the protection which life insurance in a good solvent company affords.

ELIZA A. NORTON.

CUT THIS OUT FOR REFERENCE!

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER BY A LIBERAL FIRM.

THE popular clothing firm of Joseph & Dornberg, of Eldred, justly deserves the patronage of this and surrounding section, for their liberal dealing with all who give them their patronage. The following is a proposition they are making to everyone in need of clothing or anything in their line.

HAVING an immense stock of spring and summer clothing for men's boys and children's wear, embracing all the latest styles and best make, and wishing to dispose of same in as short a time as possible, have concluded to pay the railroad fare to Eldred and back of any one in McKean and Potter counties, providing such parties buy fifteen dollars worth or over of us. When we make this offer do not for a moment think that we will add said fare to the price of the goods. We guarantee the prices of our goods to be lower than same goods can be bought for at any other house in the county.

WE believe in advertising, and expend a great deal of money in that way. This season we take some of the money that we would otherwise expend in advertising, and pay the railroad fare of our customers to and from our store.

THIS will give everyone a chance to visit Eldred free. Perhaps you may wish to do other business while here, thus greatly lessening your expenses, while we will have the satisfaction of doing a big business even if the profits are small, but the saying is "many a nickle makes a mickle."

DO not fail to embrace this opportunity and call on us at your earliest convenience.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH & DORNBERG.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Chip bonnets are worn.

Mitts have very long wrists.

Every kind of plaid and check is worn.

Spanish laces are no longer fashionable.

The newest coiffures show more of the forehead.

Long jersey gloves of finest wool are much worn.

In millinery flowers are almost superseded by leaves.

Chenille bids fair to hold its own as a popular trimming.

All the Oriental laces and darned laces are much worn.

A new shade of velvet is called "Hight of Fancy Blue."

Pongees, plain, printed, and embroidered, are worn again.

Handkerchiefs are knotted about the throat in the "Pretty Peggy" style.

Lace and embroidery is as much the rage this season as it was last summer.

As many as forty-two colors and shades appear in the new spring gloves.

Cock's comb ribbons of two contrasting colors are used for corsage and neck bows.

Ombre or shaded effects appear in some of the new French millinery and dress goods.

The long wrists of mitts and gloves have a fanciful finish of shirring, puffs and ribbon.

The loveliest shades of salmon, rose, corn blue and water green are seen in the new China crapes.

Cheviots come in plaids, checks, hairlines, stripes and mixtures. The colorings are fine and subdued.

Bustles and crinolettes grow larger, while skirt draperies are made more simple to accommodate them.

As many as eight different colored ribbon cockades with cock's-comb ends are seen on some new bonnets.

Jet sequins from the ornamental fringe of black tulle tabliers and draperies on black evening toilets.

Black silk stockings with gold thread clocks and embroidery are among importations of fancy hosiery.

The mingling of two or more laces in one fichu, ruche or collarette for the neck has become quite common.

HOW WATCHES ARE MADE.

In a SOLID GOLD WATCH, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus gold is actually needless. In James Boss' Patent Gold Watch Cases this WASTE is saved, and SOLIDITY and STRENGTH increased by a simple process, at one-half the cost. A plate of SOLID GOLD is soldered on each side of a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished steel rollers. From this the cases, backs, centers, bezels, etc., are cut and shaped by dies and formers. The gold is thick enough to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving and engine turning. These cases have been worn perfectly smooth by use without removing the gold. This is the only case made under this process. Each case is accompanied with a valid guarantee signed by the manufacturers warranting it to wear 20 years. 150,000 of these Cases now carried in the United States and Canada. Largest and Oldest Factory. Established 1854. Ask your Jeweler.

Worse Than Heathen.

All those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Durnell's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, Sudden Starting in Sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. It is wine and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by A. B. Armstrong and E. F. Richmond & Son.

Various Causes—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its results, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil or color white cambric; yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous, imparting an agreeable perfume.

His Soul and His Silver.

"You asking me how I came to use it, reminds me of the story of the rs-tchman who, on his deathbed, after a life of meanness, wanted to make things all right with the Lord by leaving some money to the kirk."

"Will the Almighty pass me into Heaven if I give 10,000 pounds to the kirk, d'ye think? said he."

"I can't promise ye that, mon," answered the minister, but I ad'vise ye to try the experiment."

Laughing heartily at the story, F. E. Osborne, of No. 372 Garden avenue, Jersey City, pastor of the First Baptist Church, West Hoboken, continued: "That's what I did with Parker's Tonic; I tried the experiment. It more than met my expectations, and I am very glad to testify to its excellence. It goes at once to the root of all digestive and nervous derangements so common among men of my profession. For women and chronic invalids the Tonic is a perfect invigorant, and is destined to supplant all other remedies for this purpose. A single dose produces the gentle perspiration and sense of life which eradicates disease. It seems to rouse every organ into activity. I admire it, too, for its power to antagonize the habit of the liquor habit over the Tonic."

This preparation, which has been known as Parker's Ginger Tonic, will hereafter be called simply Parker's Tonic. An unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers with inferior articles under the name of ginger; and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of Parker's Ginger Tonic, contain the genuine medicine if the facsimile signature of Hiscox & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

The best and cheapest Cough Cure in use. | to give satisfaction or money refunded.
Price 25 and 50 cents.

This positive Cough Cure is placed at the moderate price of 25 cents, within the reach of all classes; and is guaranteed to produce the desired result, where sufficiently thorough trial is given it, to prove its intrinsic merit. For Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and bronchial tubes, it is unparalleled—effecting cures where all other remedies have failed. Physicians are constantly ordering consumptive patients to the Pine Woods; we have succeeded in bringing all the virtues and vital principles of the "Pineries" to the invalid at home—accomplishing what many have long tried to do. We have demonstrated the perfect solubility of the tar, and thereby its ready absorption into the system—by a much more rapid and general power than merely inhaling the air of the Pineries. This refined tar, with other valuable vegetable compounds, produces Anderson's Poor Man's Cough Cure, which gives the pleasing result of a sure cure at a small price. It is perfectly safe to be taken as the case may require—small and frequent doses being most effectual in allaying the original irritability. Sold By All Dealers.

A Great Cause of Human Misery is the Loss of MANHOOD

A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—by ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in his admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Address
